To become a "Living Master" does not mean we are "perfect" or that we are a guru, a swami, or someone who wears a turban, nor is a living master to be confused with an "Ascended Master"—one who has completed their lessons on earth and has broken their ties to karma and the belief in the illusion of being separate from God. Have you ever been selfish just for a moment and thought of all Jesus did for you. In this post, we take a look at identity. Most of us struggle with it as we continually compare ourselves to others. But God wants you to bloom in who you are in Him and the plans He has for your life. Time to be selfish and see what God says about you. 6 Ways to Achieve the Life God Intended Whether you know it or not, God has a special calling for your life—a calling He wants you to know and pursue. Here are six ways to achieve the life God ... All of life is an act of worship and an opportunity to serve and please God. 2 Chronicles 26:1-21. Many of us assume there is a chasm between two realities: the sacred and the secular. We go to church a few hours a week to perform our sacred duties. The rest of our week we're out there living in the real world. Karen is passionate about seeing people live their lives the way God intended and to fulfil the purpose and plans that God has for them. She has run a number of life groups and taught teen church and Sunday school. She loves ministering to others. Her other passion is organising. She resides in Australia with her...
